

Working In Peel Halton: A Website Resource for Job Seekers

Peel Halton Workforce Development Group (PHWDG) is a community based, non-profit corporation consisting of a volunteer Board of Directors representing business, labour, women, visible racial minorities, educators/trainers and other groups. Its main role is to conduct an interactive process that results in the Trends, Opportunities and Priorities report which serves as a strategic tool for building community partnerships.

The Peel Halton Workforce Development Group conducts research to gather information on labour market trends, shares findings with the community partners & stakeholders in an accurate way, creates a community plan of action in consultation with key partners and stakeholders, and facilitates collaborative partnerships to address identified labour market issues.

Peel Halton Workforce Development Group is respected as a non-partisan organization working collaboratively with a cross section of partners in the Peel and Halton communities on projects that positively affect labour market issues.

Peel Halton Workforce Development Group has created a website to goal help you to find your next job in Peel Halton; Working in Peel Halton provides job seekers with timely and local labour market information (LMI), job opportunities in and around Peel Halton, and local resources. The website also teaches you how to use local labour market information to find jobs and make good career decisions. If you are a job seeker, someone deciding on a new career, or a career practitioner, let Working in Peel Halton empower and inform your next steps to a job.