

Now Accepting Applications for Newly Created Brampton Women's Advisory Committee

By resolution passed at its meeting on February 28, 2024, Brampton City Council has created the new Brampton Women's Advisory Committee (BWAC) with a purpose to: support the City of Brampton commitment to creating a gender-inclusive municipality and fostering meaningful participation of women across the organization. The BWAC aims to raise awareness, advise, and stimulate action to serve as a resource to Council on matters pertaining to women in the City of Brampton, and will consider the unique socioeconomic, political, and cultural barriers that women may face because of public policy mandates.

Residents with a passion for city-building and an interest in helping shape the future of our community are invited to apply. If you identify as a woman, possess leadership experience in the Arts, Sports, Business, Health Care, Human Rights, Law, and/or share a passion to advocate for gender equality, please consider this opportunity.

Members of our advisory committees, boards and tribunals help inform Mayor and Council on issues important to Bramptonians. Members of these groups are directly involved in local government decision-making.
