SCHEDULE "B" TO BY-LAW 58-2009

SHORT STATEMENT OF THE REASON FOR THE DESIGNATION OF 21 CHURCH STREET EAST:

The property at 21 Church Street East is worthy of designation under Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act for its cultural heritage value or interest. The property meets the criteria for designation prescribed by the Province of Ontario under the three categories of design or physical value, historical value and contextual value.

The cultural heritage value of 21 Church Street East is related to its design or physical value as both a Greek Revival and Edwardian style home. Essentially these are two distinct architectural styles reflected in one dwelling.

The front facing Church Street East is Edwardian Classicism and the rear portion of the structure is Greek Revival. The rear part of the structure is a rare example of a Greek Revival Style house, reflecting a high degree of craftsmanship. The north façade of the home is reflective of the Edwardian style, which is common in Brampton. The Greek Revival façade of this home is of great value as it is a rare find in the City of Brampton. Built c. 1850 this home is amongst the oldest homes in Brampton.

Greek Revival does not differentiate grossly from the neo-classical style. Each style stemmed from an appreciation for ancient classical antiquities, unlike the Roman examples, Greek revival is based on inspirations from early Greece. The composition of Greek Revival is usually symmetrical and simple ornamentation, if any, is used. An Edwardian home was usually cubed shaped in order to make the most of limited space and it was also easy to build. Despite its cost-effective attributes it was an attractive style because it appeal depended on shape and proportions, not its decoration. This style was usually a two-storey structure with a large front porch, off-centre doorway, and a dormer window.

The interior of the home is also of cultural heritage value. When you enter the home from the Church Street entrance you are surrounded by interior Edwardian features and as you move to the rear of the home, the interior reflects Greek Revival. In the Edwardian portion of the home all the interior 'Eastlake' style woodwork is intact – staircases, door surrounds, etc. The kitchen interior at the rear of the home is also of value as it reveals wide angled architraves over the windows and doors associated with the Greek Revival style. As one travels through this home, from the Church Street entrance to the rear, it is as if one is traveling through time because the interior features reflect both the 1900s and the early 1850s.

The property also has historical or associative value as it used to belong to John Vodden. He was an important figure in Brampton's history because he served as President of the Brampton Fall Fair from 1855-1857. He was also the owner of a significant amount of land north of Church Street; as a result, Vodden Street was named after him. By 1877 the name Vodden Street appears on the Peel County Atlas, therefore, the name Vodden Street has been part of Brampton's history for a significant period of time.

The cultural heritage value of the property is also connected to its contextual value as it supports and defines the character of neighbourhood. It is linked to its surroundings in that one could speculate that the current rear façade of the home was once the front façade that would have originally fronted Nelson Street and looked onto the Etobicoke River. Other homes on Church Street East also have similar characteristics, in that they too once fronted onto Nelson Street. The size of the lot and the original orientation of the home reveal Brampton's early residential history and the original path of the Etobicoke River.

DESCRIPTION OF THE HERITAGE ATTRIBUTES OF THE PROPERTY:

Unless otherwise indicated, the reason for designation apply generally to all exterior elevations, facades, foundation, roof and roof trim, all doors, windows, other structural openings and associated trim, all architectural detailing, construction materials of wood, stone, brick, plaster parging, metal and glazing and related building techniques, fencing, all trees, shrubs, hedgerows, other vegetation and the grounds and vistas generally.

Additionally, the designation will also apply to the home's interior features such as the 'Eastlake' woodwork and the mid-nineteenth century staircase.

To ensure that the cultural heritage value of this property is conserved, certain heritage attributes that contribute to its value have been identified. They include:

- Unpainted red brick home
- Church Street East façade is an Edwardian style brick veneer home
 - Gable roof
 - Asymmetrical pedimented front porch
 - Off-centre doorway
 - Limestone window sills and headers
 - Simple ornamentation
 - Large windows
 - All original window openings have been maintained
 - Projecting gable with decorative shingles
- Rear façade is an 1850s Greek Revival style home
 - Stairs lead to main entrance
 - Very fine transom and sidelights are still evident but have been obstructed
 - Transom runs above the sidelights as well
 - Doorway surrounded by pilasters supporting an entablature
 - Long windows
 - An original 6x6 window is still intact
 - Brick voussoirs
 - Two-story verandah
 - Large two-storey side verandah with dental moulding, and columns on brick piers
 - Rare architectural style in Brampton
- Could be the oldest house on the street and amongst the oldest homes of downtown Brampton

- Associated with John Vodden
- J. Vodden was the president of the Brampton fall fair, a tradition that continues today
- John Vodden owned significant portions of land in that area of Brampton
- Vodden Street named after John Vodden
- Connected to the surrounding neighbourhood
- Large lot size reveals the old lot formation
- Orientation of rear façade tells that this home, like others along Church Street East, once faced Nelson Street and the Etobicoke River
- Reveals Brampton's early residential history

GENERAL PROPERTY DESCRIPTION:

The lot is a rectangle. The property is 63 feet wide and approximately 250 feet deep; covering a total area of over 15500 square feet.

The plan of the principle structure is slightly irregular as one could speculate that this structure is actually comprised of two homes built at separate times.

The principle elevation (main façade) is emphasized by the following elements: 2 ½ storey red brick veneer home, gable roof with decorative shingles and a window, large asymmetrical pedimented front porch, large windows, and limestone sills and headers.

Landscaping elements include: a small flowerbed that wraps around the front of the home, a row of hedge along the driveway, and a relatively small coniferous tree.

Adjacent property features include: tree-lined street with larger homes to east and smaller homes to the west.

Public Notice

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO DESIGNATE IN THE MATTER OF THE ONTARIO HERITAGE ACT, R.S.O. 1990, CHAPTER O.18, AS AMENDED, TAKE NOTICE THAT THE COUNCIL OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BRAMPTON INTENDS TO DESIGNATE THE FOLLOWING LANDS AND PREMISES IN THE CITY OF BRAMPTON, IN THE PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, UNDER PART IV OF THE ONTARIO HERITAGE ACT:

12 Victoria Terrace: The cultural heritage value of 12 Victoria Terrace is related to its design or physical value as a well-designed late 19th century masonry home. It is a unique example of a residential home with Queen Anne influences, reflecting a high degree of craftsmanship. The property also has historical or associative value as it reflects the work of William B. McCulloch. McCulloch came to Brampton in 1878 from Norway. He worked as a local contractor/builder in the Brampton area and was responsible, along with Jesse Perry, for the construction of several projects. It is believed that this home was once heated by the Dale Estates.

87 Elizabeth Street South: The cultural heritage value of 87 Elizabeth Street South is related to its design or physical value as a Gothic Revival Ontario Vernacular Cottage. It is an excellent example of the Gothic Revival cottage style reflecting a high degree of craftsmanship. The subject property is a one-and-a-half storey gable-end Gothic Revival Ontario Vernacular cottage. This home is symmetrically balanced with a central door flanked by window on either side with a tall, steeply pitched pointed gable over the front door. The property also has historical or associative value as it was associated with the Elliott Family. The land originally belonged to John Elliott, and at the time of his death in 1871 he left it to his wife, Jane Elliott. She sold the property, approximately 6 acres, that same year to Robert Brodby, the then Sheriff of Peel.

247 Main Street North: The cultural heritage value of 247 Main Street North is related to its design or physical value as an important reminder of Brampton's 19th century residential homes. It is a very good example of late 19th century masonry, multi-gabled residences, reflecting a high degree of craftsmanship. This vernacular Queen Anne style home is well designed and is comprised of decorative brickwork and shingles, projecting gables, and prominent brick voussoirs, which form curved window openings. The property reflects the work of Jesse Perry, a well-known builder in Brampton. The property also has historical or associative value, as it is associated not only with Jesse Perry, but also with Benjamin Justin. B. Justin practiced law in Brampton for many years and was later appointed Judge. He held this position until 1922. He also served as the town mayor for a three-year term from 1903-1905. The property reflects the history of Brampton's late nineteenth century residential neighbourhoods and notable Brampton citizens.

15 Main Street North: The cultural heritage value of 15 Main Street North is related to its design or physical value as a nineteenth century commercial building. It is a very good example of commercial architecture with classic Italianate features. 15 Main Street North is a three storey brick building divided into three bays with a ball cast mansard roof. The third floor windows have masonry sills that extend to either side of the surrounds, while the second floor windows have shorter sills. Keystones characterize all of the windows. The property forms an integral part of Downtown Brampton's commercial streetscape.

19 Main Street North: The cultural heritage value of 19 Main Street North is related to its design or physical value as a nineteenth century commercial building. It is a very good example of commercial architecture with classic Italianate features. 19 Main Street North is a three storey brick building divided into three bays with a flat roof over the northern end. The third floor windows have masonry sills that extend to either side of the surrounds, while the second floor windows have shorter sills. Keystones characterize all of the windows. The property forms an integral part of Downtown Brampton's commercial streetscape.

21 Church Street East: The cultural heritage value of 21 Church Street East is related to its design or physical value as both a Greek Revival and Edwardian style home. Essentially there are two distinct architectural styles reflected in one dwelling. The front facing Church Street East is Edwardian Classicism and the rear portion of the structure is Greek Revival. The rear part of the structure is a rare example of a Greek Revival Style house, reflecting a high degree of craftsmanship. The north façade of the home is reflective of the Edwardian style, which is common in Brampton. The Greek Revival façade of this home is of great value as it is a rare find in the City of Brampton. Built c. 1850 this home is amongst the oldest homes in Brampton. The interior of the home is also of cultural heritage value. When you enter the home from the Church Street entrance you are surrounded by interior Edwardian features and as you move to the rear of the home, the interior reflects Greek Revival.

62 John Street: The cultural heritage value of 62 John Street is related to its design or physical value as a one-and-a-half storey residential home with a brick veneer. The home is well-designed with dichromatic brickwork (buff and red brick), a one-storey bay, and voussoirs with saw-tooth brick and a scalloped outline. The home also features a variety of window shapes including: pointed arch windows, round-headed windows, curved, and segmental. Decorative dichromatic window and door voussoirs with corbeling form are an important element of this home. An enclosed porch with paneling characterizes the home's front façade. The property also has historical or associative value due to its association with James Packham, who built the home, and James Fella, who resided in the home. James Packham was the owner of a Brick Factory at the end of John Street that later became Brampton Brick.

100 Queen Street West: The cultural heritage value of 100 Queen Street West is related to its design or physical value as a well-designed and well-preserved 20th Century home. It is a rare example of the Tudor Revival style, reflecting a high degree of craftsmanship. The most evident indication about the home's architectural style is the use of half-timbering, a decorative element mimicking the structural timber frame of Elizabethan homes, used on the front gable. This large two-storey home is also characterized by decorative brickwork between the half timbering, leaded sash windows, stone window sills, two projecting bays with a copper roof, decorative stone surround frames the entrance and the large first floor window located to the west of the home's entrance, 2 chimneys, and a small front porch with wrought iron. The property also has historical or associative value as it is most commonly associated with Orton O.T. Walker, who was a longtime Brampton citizen and businessman. The property can also be associated with the Dale family, as they owned the home from the mid 1940s to the early 1960s.

285 Steeles Avenue West: The cultural heritage value of 285 Steeles Avenue West is related to its design or physical value as a 2-storey well-designed brick home. It is a unique example of Italianate architecture with some gothic revival influences reflecting a high degree of craftsmanship. The property also has historical or associative value as it reflects the work of the Neeland family who occupied the home for over 60 years.

- Land upon which the subject property is situated belonged to the Neeland family since 1819;
- For over a century this land was owned by Neeland's and the current home was occupied by Neeland's for over 60 years;
- The house in question was built by the Neeland's c. 1870;
- Daniel Neeland's lived in the subject property; and
- Other Neeland's owned homes and farms in this area and as a result the Orange Lodge referred to this area as the "Neeland's corner".

18 Ellen Street: The cultural heritage value of 18 Ellen Street is related to its design or physical value as a Vernacular Italianate style home. It is both an excellent and rare example of a 19th Century semi-detached row house that is rare in Brampton since few were built and few survived. The cultural heritage value of 18 Ellen Street is largely due to its architectural significance as it is a very well-designed, large two-storey red brick home. Its architectural characteristics include: ornate side gables and windows details on the upper floors, just under the eaves; decorative millwork at the gable; segmental window openings; well-designed two storey bays; and round headed windows at the top of the bays.

20 Ellen Street: The cultural heritage value of 20 Ellen Street is related to its design or physical value as a Vernacular Italianate style home. It is both an excellent and rare example of a 19th Century semi-detached row house that is rare in Brampton since few were built and few survived. The cultural heritage value of 20 Ellen Street is largely due to its architectural significance as it is a very well-designed, large two-storey red brick home. Its architectural characteristics include: ornate side gables and windows details on the upper floors, just under the eaves; decorative millwork at the gable; segmental window openings; well-designed two storey bays; and round headed windows at the top of the bays. 20 Ellen has the original wooden window sills and the windows have the original detailed carvings in the woodwork.

30 McLaughlin Road South: The cultural heritage value of 30 McLaughlin Road South is related to its design or physical value as a one and half storey pioneer farmstead. The home, believed to be built in 1834, has architectural value because: the exterior which is currently vinyl covers insulbrick from the 1920s or so, and presumably underneath that is either wooden clapboard or pebble-dash stucco; the interior has hand split lath, surviving simple door surrounds, timber framing in the basement ceiling joists, and wide pine timbers. Although the home has been recovered over the years it is likely the original house was built in the early 1830s. The property also has historical or associative value as it reflects the work of the Elliott family. John Elliott is usually held to be the founder of Brampton. The subject property is believed to have been built in 1834 and at this time was occupied by John and Mary Elliott. Six generations of Elliott's have owned this house since; it was sold in 2005 for the first time to a non-Elliott.

193 Main Street North: The cultural heritage value of 193 Main Street North is related to the fact that it forms part of a 2-storey double dwelling with a gabled porch, two front-pieces with gable and fish-scale shingles, and segmental windows with arched radiating voussoirs. It is a rare example of a well-designed Italianate duplex in Brampton, reflecting a high degree of craftsmanship, only a few survive. The property also has historical or associative value as it most commonly associated with James E. Cooper who was the Assistant Manager of Dale Estates, the Superintendent of Grace Methodist Sunday School (1916-1932) Secretary-Treasurer of the Brampton Fruit Grower's Association (1914-1915), and served on the financial committee of the Boys and Girls Camp in 1930. He married Edith Ethel Hewatson, daughter of John Hewatson of the Hewatson Shoe Company.

195 Main Street North: The cultural heritage value of 195 Main Street North is related to the fact that it forms part of a 2-storey double dwelling with a gabled porch, two front-pieces with gable and fish-scale shingles, and segmental windows with arched radiating voussoirs. It is a rare example of a well-designed Italianate duplex in Brampton, reflecting a high degree of craftsmanship, only a few survive. The property also has historical or associative value as it most commonly associated with James E. Cooper who was the Assistant Manager of Dale Estates, the Superintendent of Grace Methodist Sunday School (1916-1932) Secretary-Treasurer of the Brampton Fruit Grower's Association (1914-1915), and served on the financial committee of the Boys and Girls Camp in 1930.

Bertram's Mount Zion Cemetery: The subject property is the site of a historic Euro-Canadian cemetery. Bertram's Old Zion has several early tombstones and many "pioneer" settlers are buried in this cemetery. The site was established as a cemetery in 1846 when the land was acquired for the "sum of one barley corn to be paid on the 17th day of December yearly if demanded" by the trustees for the cemetery. The property was established for a "Common School Meeting House and burial grounds". The indenture of this lease was witnessed by John Woodhall and John Simpson and was to be registered on March 12, 1846 by John Watson. The cultural heritage value of Bartram's Old Zion Cemetery is related to its design or physical value as a representative example of a rural historic Euro-Canadian cemetery. The Cemetery holds several early, hand carved tombstones containing well-executed and beautiful motifs and symbols.

Eventide Cemetery: The subject property is the site of a rural Euro-Canadian Cemetery. The "House of Industry and Refuge" (demolished in 1955 and later replaced by Peel Manor) was established about 1898 to provide "more suitable accommodation for the destitute of our County than that now supplied in the County Jail." Eventide Cemetery served the House of Refuge. There are approximately 109 marked burials all embedded in the sod, arranged in a series of uniform horizontal rows. Peel County passed a bylaw to acquire suitable sites for erecting the house, they by-law called for the erection of a house of refuge, also stipulated "where neither relatives of the deceased nor the municipality where he belongs provide for burial, the caretaker shall procure a cheap coffin and have the remains decently placed therein." The burials took place on a field near the house of refuge set apart for cemetery purposes. The heritage attributes of the cemetery are a symbol of the social reform movement in the "Progressive Era" of the late 18th Century.

Zion Cemetery: The cultural heritage value of the Zion Cemetery is related to its design or physical value as a representative example of a rural historic Euro-Canadian cemetery. The many early tombstones and grave markers reflect a high degree of craftsmanship as exhibited by ornately carved motifs and symbols. The markers are of the slab, block, and obelisk styles, and are made of marble, limestone, or granite. The property for the cemetery, part of lot 15 concession 1 East, was donated to the Christian Brethren Baptist Church by John Watson in 1815. A church was built by the Baptist congregation and later used by the Wesleyan Methodists, after the Baptists relocated to the Snelgrove area. The Wesleyan Methodists worshipped there until the 1860s. And, according to the Women's Institute, the church was torn down circa the turn of the century, leaving the cemetery as a stand-alone feature.

Please contact Antonietta Minichillo, Heritage Coordinator in Urban Design Section at (905) 674-3744 for further information respecting the proposed designations.

Notice of objection to the designation, setting out the reason for the objection and all relevant facts, may be served on the Clerk, City Hall, 2 Wellington Street West, Brampton, Ontario, L6Y 4R2, no later than 4:30 p.m. on December 12, 2008.
